Contributors

Larry Brown is a postgraduate in the Department of American and Canadian Studies at the University of Nottingham. He is writing a thesis on Richard Rorty and he won the 1997 British Association of American Studies essay prize for a discussion of Rorty and the cultural left.

Jeanne Heuving is Associate Professor at the University of Washington, Bothell. Her book Omissions Are Not Accidents: Gender in the Art of Marianne Moore was published in 1992 and she has published several articles on women poets as well as her own poetry.

Suzanne Jones is Associate Professor of American Literature and Women’s Studies at the University of Richmond, Virginia. She is editor of a collection of stories, Growing Up In the South, and a collection of essays, Writing the Woman Artist.

T. J. Lustig teaches in the American Studies department at Keele University. He edited the World’s Classics edition of The Turn of the Screw and previous publications include Henry James and the Ghostly (1994).

Sharon Monteith is Head of Literature at the University of Hertfordshire.

Linden Peach is Reader in Contemporary Literature at Loughborough University. He is the author of two recent critical studies, Toni Morrison (Macmillan, 1995) and Angela Carter (Macmillan, 1997), and editor of Toni Morrison: New Casebook (Macmillan, 1997).

Rosalind Poppleton-Pritchard is writing a doctoral thesis on Tim O’Brien at the University of Hertfordshire.

Alan Shima is a Research Fellow in the Department of English at Goteborg University, Sweden and serves on the editorial board of American Studies in Scandinavia. He is the author of Skirting the Subject: Pursuing Language in the Works of Adrienne Rich, Susan Griffin, and Beverly Dahlen.

John Simons is Dean of the School of Humanities and Arts at Edge Hill University College.

Peter Stoneley lectures at Queens University, Belfast and is the author of Mark Twain and the Feminine Aesthetic (Cambridge, 1993).

Helen Taylor of the University of Warwick is the author of Scarlett’s Women: Gone With the Wind and its Female Fans (Virago, 1989) and Gender, Race and...
Region in the Writings of Grace King, Ruth McEnery Stuart and Kate Chopin (Louisiana, 1989). In 1998 she is organising an international conference ‘New Orleans in Europe’ to be held at Warwick in the UK.