Contributors

Jan Berting is Professor Emeritus of Sociology, at the Erasmus University in Rotterdam, Netherlands. He is presently living in Marseilles. His most recent publication is: Europe: A Heritage, a Challenge, a Promise. Delft, 2006.

David Phillips is Senior Lecturer in the Social Policy Department of Sociological Studies, University of Sheffield, United Kingdom. His main research interests include altruism; trust; social cohesion; and quality of life. His most recent book Quality of Life: Concept, Policy and Practice has just been published by Routledge. He has been a member of ENIQ: the European Network on Indicators of Social Quality, co-ordinated by the European Foundation on Social Quality and funded by the EU Fifth Framework programme. At present he is undertaking research on quality of life and sustainability.

Dr Peter Herrmann from the University of Cork in Ireland is an expert on the role of NGO's in Europe, the position of citizens, and especially the question of poverty and inequality. His studies deal with Germany, the United Kingdom, Ireland, France and recently Sweden. In Germany, he was engaged in early debates on social indicators.

Gábor Juhász CSc (sociology), MSc (policy studies), ML is Assistant Professor, Head of the Institute of Social Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences in Eötvös Loránd University, Hungary. His research interests are the effectiveness of social legislation and European social policy.

Denis Bouget is Professor of Economics at the University of Nantes and was the Director of the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme (MSH) Ange Guépin in Nantes (1999–2005). His research interests are in social protection and solidarity, social exclusion, long-term care for older people and decentralisation. He was chair of the European Commission funded COST A 15 programme on 'Reforms of social welfare systems within a context of Europeanisation and globalisation' (1999–2004). His recent publications in this area include an edited volume on Comparing Social Welfare Systems in Nordic Europe and France (with B. Palier, MIRE-DREES, 2000); 'Convergence in the social welfare systems in Europe: from goal to reality', Social Policy & Administration, 37 (6), 2003; 'Convergence in social welfare systems: what is its meaning?', Social Policy Review, Vol 16, 2003.

Peter R.A. Oeij is senior researcher and senior consultant in work, management and organisation issues, and is affiliated to TNO Quality of Life/Business Unit Work, The Netherlands (www.tno.nl).

Ton Korver is a labour economist, presently employed at OSA/Institute for Labour Studies in Tilburg, the Netherlands. Earlier he taught at the Universities of Amsterdam and Tilburg and conducted and coordinated research at SISWO/Institute for Social Studies (Amsterdam) and TNO Work and Employment (Hoofddorp). His main research interests are in industrial relations, in transitional labour markets and in employment strategies, the European strategy explicitly included. He is an editor of Filosofie in Bedrijf (Philosophy in Business/Action) and a member of the editorial board of the Tijdschrift voor Arbeidsvraagstukken (Journal for Labour Studies).

Paule-Monique Vernes, Professor of Philosophy, emeritus, at the university of Provence and associated professor at the University of Québec at Montréal (UQAM). She has published: Rousseau, Les illusions de la communauté (Payot, Paris 1978), Rousseau, anticipateur-retardataire (with J. Boulad-Ayoub and I. Schulte- Tenckhoff) (L'Harmattan, Paris 2000), and Descartes révolutionnaire (with J. Boulad-Ayoub) (Presses de l'Université Laval, Québec).