

Notes on the Contributors

Bettina G. Bergo is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh. She is the translator of three works by Emmanuel Levinas, and a book on Heidegger's debt to Jewish thought (M. Zarader, La dette impensee: Heidegger et l'heritage hebraique). Her monograph on Levinas and postmodern thought (Levinas Between Ethics and Politics, Kluwer) will appear in paperback in 2003.

Peter Burke is Professor of Cultural History at the University of Cambridge. His many publications include History and Theory, The Italian Renaissance, and Popular Culture in Early Modern Europe.

Johannes Fedderke is Gencor Professor of Economics and Director of Econometric Research Southern Africa at the University of the Witwatersrand. He is also currently Visiting Professor at the Rand Graduate School.

Anthony Holiday teaches in the School of Government at the University of the Western Cape. He is the author of Moral Powers: Normative Necessity in Language and History.

Ashraf Jamal teaches in the School of Language, Culture and Communication at the University of Natal. His 2002 publications include "Norman Catherine and the Art of Terror", in South African Journal of Art History, "The Third Space: Theodor Adorno and Homi Bhabha on Restlessness and Redemption", in Current Writing, and The Shades (Brevitas), a collection of short fiction for which he won the 2002 Sanlam Literary Award.

Ben Parker teaches in the School of Human and Social Studies and is deputy-director of the Unilever Ethics Centre at the University of Natal, Pietermaritzburg. He has served as professor and head of the School of Education, University of Natal and as director: higher education in the national department of education. His main research interests lie in ethics and public policy and ethics and education.